What's it all Mean?

The Airport Authority updated their Noise Study for the first time since the 1980s. The findings of the Study found that the noise contours (i.e., areas of noise impact from aircraft) had reduced in size. Thus, the City is looking at potential changes in land uses due to the reduced area that is impacted by noise. Also, the City is considering changing how we regulate land uses within the noise contours – such as greater restrictions on where residences may be built.

The Public Information Meeting is the City's initial public event to gather comments from citizens and property owners in evaluating changes to land use and regulations.

The Planning Department is tentatively scheduled to bring forward Comprehensive Plan and Zoning Ordinance amendments to the Planning Commission and City Council in late spring 2004.
